The feet are formed for walking, with three toes forward, the outer of which is connected at the base to the middle one. PURPLE CRACKLE. The Purple Grackle has a black bill: its head and neck are black, glossed over with a most resplendent blue, which varies with the light. The back and belly are also black, mixed with green and copper-colour. The legs are black, and the wings and tail of a rich purple. The weight is about twelve ounces. It is a migratory bird, and found in most parts of America. It associates with the Red-winged Oriole in ravaging the plantations of maize, and these they attack together in myriads. In New England a reward was offered of three-pence a dozen for their heads, and the inhabitants soon found, to their own cost, that they had at one...
