We continue to believe that measurable critical levels of performance should be established before beginning the tests, demonstrations, and evaluations. DOD partially agreed with our draft Because of a misinterpretation, recommendation to evaluate the feasibility and costs of performing sufficient tests and evaluations during the limited procurement to preclude concluded DOD the need to duplicate them during a larger procurement. that we wanted them to expand the testing program. However, our intent was to preclude the need to repeat tests to support a larger procurement. Therefore, we modified the recommendation to prevent any misunderstanding. agreed to provide evidence that the deployment of would be DOD EFOG-M cost-effective before requesting appropriations to support and operate the EFOG-M DOD equipment beyond the extended user evaluation period. stated RFPI ACTD that the results of the would include an analysis of the cost-effectiveness of limited fielding with the inventory procured for the ACTD as well as for an expanded deployment and that any decision to procure additional units...
